Flight of Passage Re-enactment Set

By Russ Niles / Posted: June 15, 2014 / www.avweb.com

As historical re-enactments go, Chris Nesin's transcontinental flight next week couldn't be much more authentic. Nesin and his wife April will take off from Pennsylvania June 22 following the flight path of the Buck brothers, Rinker and Kern, that turned into the inspirational book Flight of Passage. What's more, they'll do it in the same Piper PA-11 the teenagers flew on their epic journey more than 48 years ago. "We've spent the last two and a half years rebuilding it and we just finished it last week," Nesin, a corporate pilot who now lives in Chattanooga, Tenn., said in a podcast interview. As of Sunday he had five hours on the Cub and said the new engine will literally be run in on the adventure.

Nesin will first fly the aircraft from Tennessee to Lock Haven, Penn., for Sentimental Journey, the annual gathering of Piper aircraft at the original headquarters of the company. Then he and his wife will head out from Lock Haven and join the original route (the Buck brothers started in New Jersey) on a flight across the country to Flabob Airport in Riverside, Calif. "We're only going to fly about 250 miles a day," said Nesin. Dozens of stops are planned along the way and Nesin said the public will be welcome to come and meet them and look at the aircraft. The flight is also being undertaken as a fundraiser and awareness campaign for the Austin Hatcher Foundation for Pediatric Cancer.

Just Aircraft plans Just Plane Fun Days

By General Aviation News Staff / Posted July 2, 2014 /

www.generalaviationnews.com

Just Aircraft will sponsor Just Plane Fun Days Aug. 29 through Aug. 31 (Labor Day weekend) at Brass Town Airport, near Brass Town, North Carolina.

Open to anyone and free of charge, the event appeals largely to people who own one of the Just Aircraft models. It is expected that Highlanders and new SuperSTOLs will dominate the event, according to company officials.

Billy Payne, who owns the airport, is hosting the event, which he calls "a gathering of like-minded people who enjoy flying their aircraft. At any given daylight hour there will usually be a dozen aircraft in the air, giving rides or participating in one of the competitions."

Among the contests are a short field takeoff, short field landing, spot landing, limbo (flying under a ribbon), balloon pop, coyote shoot (balloons), and bomb drop. All of the Just Aircraft models will be judged with a variety of categories: Best of Show, Best Panel, Most Innovative, People’s Choice and Grand Champion.

On Saturday night there will be a cookout at the airport and on Sunday morning pilots will take off for a tour of the local mountains.

Last year, about 2,000 people visited the gathering, and even with bad weather 19 Just Aircraft flew in. This year, with good weather, the host expects more than twice that number.

Just Aircraft has shipped more than 500 kits to builders all over the world.

Camping is available on the field and for those who prefer a motel, the group has a special rate at the local Hampton Inn. For more information phone Billy Payne at 828-557-4833 or call Just Aircraft at 864-718-0320.
